THE FATAL CONCEALMENT. A THRILLING STORY.

BY AN ENGLISH BURGESS.

Some years after I commenced practice—but the precise date I shall, for obvious reasons, avoid mentioning, I had a friend at whose house I was a pretty constant visitor. He had a wife whom the magnet drew me there. She was beautiful—but I shall not attempt to describe her—she was more than beautiful—she was fascinating, she was captivating. Her presence was to me like the intoxication of opium. I was only happy under its influence; and yet, after indulgence in the fatal pleasure, I sank into the deepest despondency. In my own justification, I must say that I never, in a word or two, betrayed my feelings, though I had some reason to suspect they were appreciated; for, while in my company, she was always gay, brilliant, and witty; yet, as I learned from others, at times she was sad and melancholy. Powerful, most powerful was the temptation to make an unreserved disclosure of my heart, but I resisted it. That I had the firmness to have been for years my only consolation.

One morning I sat alone in my chamber. My clerk was absent. A gentle knock was just audible on the outer door. I shouted "come in!" in no animable manner, for I was indulging in a delicious reverie upon the subject of the lady of my heart, and the presence of an ordinary mortal was hateful. The door opened, and Mrs.—entered; I do not know exactly what I did, but it seemed to be a long time before I had power to rise and welcome her, while she stood there with a timid blush upon her lips, which made me feel that it would be too great a happiness to die.

"I don't wonder that you are surprised to see me here," she began with a provoking little laugh; "but is your astonishment too great to allow you to say how do you do?"

The spell was broken. I started and took her hand; I fear I pressed it more warmly and held it longer than was absolutely necessary.

"Perhaps your surprise will be increased," she continued, "when I inform you that I come on business."

I muttered something about not being so ambitious as to hope that she would visit me for any other motive. She took no notice of what I said, but I perceived that her face turned deadly pale, and that her hand trembled as she placed before me a bundle of papers.

"You will see by these," she said in a low hurried voice, "what some property was left me by my uncle and grandfather, but so strictly settled that I can touch nothing but interest."

Watson disappeared. I turned the key on the outer door, and sprang toward the closet. As I unlocked it, I remembered the look she gave me when I shut it. I wondered, with a beating heart, whether the same expression would meet my猝死 gaze when I opened it. There she stood with her eyes calmly fixed on mine.

"You are safe, dearest," I murmured.

She did not rebuke me for calling her so; and emboldened by her silence, I took her hand to lead her from her narrow prison. She moved forward and fell into my arms—a corpse.

I cannot recall what followed. I only know that every means was tried for her restoration to life; but alas! without success. Of one thing I was firmly convinced—she had not died of suffocation. She was pale, rigid and cold. The tumult of her own emotions must have killed her the moment the door was closed upon her.

By some means I kept my secret from the knowledge of Watson and every one else. All that night I was trying to recover her. Then I formed the project of shutting her up in the closet, locking up the chambers and going abroad for twenty years. But the idea was rejected as soon as formed; for it would be hardly possible that the presence of a dead body in the house should not be discovered before that time.

Next, I thought of setting fire to the place, burning all my books and papers, making a funeral pyre, and thus ruining myself to preserve the secret. But that thought, too, was dismissed. It might cause loss of life and property to many innocent people, and would be a long proceeding after all, and if this fire was discovered early, policemen, firemen, might break in, and finding her body there, all would be lost—it was more to save her reputation than my life, that I was surviving and, at least, as to tell me whether there is any probability of my being able to do as I desire. But I see that you are like the rest of the lawyers—time! time! time! I suppose you will keep thinking to till I am dead, and then it will go to my husband in due course of law?"

"It may not require more than half an hour to ascertain so much, that I can direct my thoughts to it for that space of time," I replied, and I know that the words rattled out of my mouth like shot. "But, would you be so unreasonable as to require an artist to draw a straight line when he was under a fit of delirious tempests?"

"Who told you I bought Enoch a fiddle?" inquired the Doctor.

"Who told me? Why, everybody says so, and some people have heard him play on it as they passed the door. But aint it true, Doctor?"

"I bought Enoch a violin when I went to New London."

"A violin? what's that?"

"Did you never see one?"

"Never."

"Enoch," said the Doctor, stepping to the door, "bring your violin here."

Enoch obeyed the command, but no sooner had he entered with his instrument, than he laid it down.

"La now, there; why it is a fiddle!"

"Do not judge rashly," said the Doctor, giving his son the wink; "wait until you hear it."

Taking the hint, Enoch played Old Hundred. The lady was completely mystified; she looked like a fiddle, but who has ever heard Old Hundred played on a fiddle? It could not be so, rising to depart, she exclaimed, "I am glad I came in to satisfy myself. La, me just to think how people will lie!"

"It is said that the Miss Foxes, or Misses Fox, have realized a fortune by snapping the joints of their big toes, which the gullible public mistook for spiritual rappings."

CONGRESSIONAL.

Thursday's Proceedings

WASHINGTON, May 1.

SENATE.—Mr. Weller read a letter from Gen. Walker, in which it is asserted that the British Government have interfered in the present struggle between Costa Rica and Nicaragua, and have furnished the Costa Ricans with arms.

A state of war is now existing between those Governments.

Mr. Douglas believed that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was being violated every day by Great Britain, and thought something ought to be done about it. He thought the present Government of Nicaragua legitimate, or as much so as the other existing Government of Central America. It was the firmest and most stable Government that had been since the throwing off of the Spanish yoke, and so far as he knew, justice was more impartially administered, and the rights of men and property more sacredly guarded and protected under the previous Government than any preceding one, nor was it any objection in his mind that an American by birth was in command of the Nicaraguan army. Nicaragua has as much right to become the asylum of emigrants. She had as much right to naturalize Gen. Walker and give military command as we had to do the same by Gen. Shields; further, Nicaragua had as good a right to send an American by birth Minister to this country, as we had to send men of foreign birth to represent us in the courts of Spain, Italy or Holland. He believed we ought to enforce our own navigation laws, but not go a hair's breadth beyond the line of duty.

Mr. Butler thought we ought to be careful not to involve ourselves in a war with any nation through the act of intermeddling adventurers.

However—Mr. Maxwell spoke on the side of the slavery question.

Mr. Ferry spoke against the extension of slavery and in favor of the restoration of the Missouri restriction, and in defense of the Republican party.

Mr. Quimby introduced a bill to repeal certain sections of the naturalization laws; referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Adjourned.

Friday's Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 2.

SENATE.—Mr. Benjamin addressed the Senate at length on Kansas affairs.

Mr. Cass complimented Mr. Benjamin, saying the sentiments just uttered ought to find a response in every patriotic heart, and his object in rising was to say that his friend from Mississippi, Mr. Brown, had assailed squatter sovereignty, his old friend, (laughed) and several of Mr. Brown's scattering weapons had him in (laughed). This squatter sovereignty he called the right of self-government; it was dear to our fathers of '76, and dear to their descendants of '56. He wanted to rescue it from the anti-slavery cast on it, and asked to have the floor on Thursday for that purpose.

Cries, "Agreed," agreed."

Mr. Seward replied to a portion of Mr. Benjamin's remarks, concerning himself.

Mr. Hale, alluding to the grossly personal remarks upon him in Mr. Clay's recent speech, remarked that he had but one word to submit in reply, that it will take something besides malice to redeem his imbecility from contempt.

Mr. Clay sprung on his feet, greatly excited, saying, "I defy the Senator's malice as much as condemn his baseness—no man assail my rights or those of my constituents and shirk his responsibility by skulking behind the plea of non-contingency. If he had been animated by those heroic feelings which he professes, he would not come upon this floor and under protection of its rules seek immunity for his insolence."

I know he is pleased by this attention; there are those of his class, who, like the London attorney, Mark Middle, in the play, are ambitious of a kick, (sensation throughout the hall). He concluded by remarking he had nothing more to say, the Senator having twice declined his acquaintance. He asked the patience of Senate or concurring so much of us sine die about a Senator who soils the carpet upon which he treads.

Mr. Hale replied he never sought an introduction to him but once, and that was on professional business for the benefit of a citizen of Alabama. Clay, for he should not suffer a conflict with one who had repeatedly eaten his own words.

He would have more plausible means than the Senator from Alabama if he should undertake to eat his own words.

He would have more plausible means than the Senator from Alabama if he should undertake to eat his own words.

Monday's Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 6.

SENATE.—Mr. Pugh presented the resolutions of the Legislature of Ohio in favor of the admission of Kansas with the Topeka constitution.

On motion of Mr. Clayton, the Secretary of State requested to transmit the original journal of the proceedings of the board of American commissioners convened in Paris to liquidate and adjust the claims of our citizens in French colonies.

House.—At the instance of Mr. Bay on the house took up the Senate bill appropriating $45,000 for the opening of the channel over the St. Clair Flats, Michigan. The bill had passed both branches at the end of the last Congress, but, for want of time, failed to receive the Executive approval.

The House passed the bill by 84 majority.

A bill was passed giving the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad the right of way through the lands occupied by the Jefferson Barracks.

Mr. Clingman asked leave to submit the following joint resolution.

Resolved, That, for the better protection of the persons and property of American citizens, under the laws of nations, and as secured by existing treaty stipulations, with reference to the thoroughfares or lines of travel between the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the President hereby is authorized to employ any part of the land or naval forces of the country, and call for any number of volunteers that may be necessary to provide for the safety of passengers and other citizens in those localities; and such forces may be used by him in aid of the local authorities or otherwise to insure the observance of such rights as the Government of the United States and citizens are entitled to enjoy.

Objections being made to the introduction of the resolution, Mr. Clingman moved to suspend the rules.

Mr. Stephens inquired what disposition Mr. Clingman intended to make of the resolution.

Mr. Clingman thought it ought to pass, but if the House should refer it he would not object.

Mr. Stephens was willing to receive it, but not now.

The vote was taken on the passage.

Mr. Jones, of Tenn., understood that the resolution authorized the President to take possession of Central America [Laughing]. He didn't want it now.

Several voices—"We do!" "Let's take it!"

Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, said he should like to amend the resolution looking to the annexation of the British Provinces.

Mr. Clingman—I shall make no motion cutting off such amendment.

Mr. Jones, of Tenn., in order to see the resolution in print, moved an adjournment, that the case of the proposition would go over till next Monday.

After an ineffectual motion for the call of the roll, the House adjourned by a vote of 65 against 63.

THE TITLE OF RIVAS.—We have seen private letters from parties engaged in the battle of Rivas which give a different version of the relative numbers engaged, from that furnished by "El Nicarguense." One of these letters, from a reliable source, states, that the actual fighting ceased in the streets of Rivas two o'clock in the morning, "whereupon we, (that is, General Walker,) left the place—but we did not know till next day, that the enemy had evacuated the town half an hour previously," and that the other party would acknowledge a defeat.

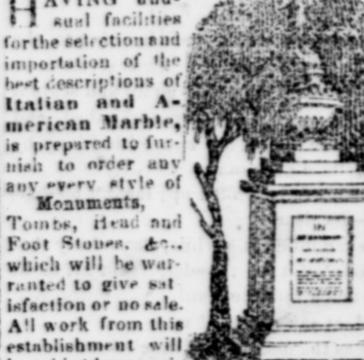

The Costa Ricans had not more than fifteen hundred men, while Walker's force is put down at four hundred and eighty. The combat lasted 19 hours, during which time Walker's men suffered severely from thirst. El Nicarguense states that Walker's entire loss did not exceed thirty, but our correspondent estimates that the number of killed and wounded was seventy-nine. It is likewise denied that the Costa Ricans lost six hundred men. Their loss probably did not exceed four hundred.

THE INDIANS IN OREGON.—The following is an extract of a letter from a gentleman in Oregon to his correspondent in Washington, dated Oregon City, Feb 23:

The Indians are in a state of open war, with the exception of a few friendly tribes to the boundary of California to the British line and from the Pacific to the Missouri river. Generally, I am sorry to say, the Indians have had the best of it in their battles with the soldiers. One engagement in Southern Oregon some time ago (a month or so), less than one hundred Indians fought one hundred and thirty-seven regulars and two hundred and fifty volunteers for three days, never yielding an inch, and on a great ground. For one hundred and thirty miles in Southern Oregon, where every claim almost on the main route was taken up by settlers not a house is standing, the crops have been destroyed, the cattle driven off, families murdered or fired for their lives. Where it will all end it is hard to say. We have 1,000 regulars and 2,500 volunteers, and yet little or no progress has yet been made in quelling these disturbances.

THE GREAT CASTILLIAN.

We see by the following paragraph in the Cincinnati Gazette, of Saturday, that further efforts are to be made in that city in behalf of the Lexington and Danville Railroad:

KENTUCKY CENTRAL RAILROAD.—The business and men property holders of the city will be waited upon in the course of today and next week by Messrs. Samuel

Davis, Jr., and J. C. Butler, commissioned appointed for the purpose, to solicit additional subscriptions to the second division of the above named road, sufficient to make up the $100,000 pledged by Cincinnati. We are pleased to find a friendly disposition with reference to this matter, which promises that the required aid will be promptly and cheerfully extended. Is each of our readers as anxious to subscribe, will consider this matter and decide at once how much they will be prepared when called upon, to dispatch the Committee without delay.

The latter have no more interest in this matter than any other merchant or property holder, and it is important that they get through with the work in a day or two.

OCEAN NAVIGATION.—A correspondent of the Pennsylvanian Enquirer, in speaking of Ocean Navigation, the lost steamer "Pacific" &c., advises that two steamships be hurriedly started across the ocean in company, instead of sending them alone. He thinks the present size of our steamships unreasonable, and perhaps that instead of having one unwieldy monster mammoth ship, there should be two of a medium size. He advised that two ships be sent in company to explore the Arctic Ocean, or to any other kind of service, where there is great risk, and in my other equally pertinent and sensible questions. We cannot tell what favor the suggestion will meet with, but for our part we would certainly feel much surer on board a vessel with another in size.

OF TENNESSEE.

DANVILLE:

Friday, ::::: May 9, 1856.

J.W. P. INGRAM, Esq., of Washington City, (formerly of Somerset, Ky.) has our thanks for an interesting article, giving the vote on every ballot for Speaker of the House of Representatives.

THOMAS A. MARSHALL, is understood to be a candidate for re-election as Appellate Judge in this district.

We invite attention to the advertisements of WILCOX & BRUCE, Wholesale and Retail Grocers, Lexington, Ky. Messrs. W. & B. are the right kind of dealers, and may be relied upon for promptness and accommodation. They always keep a large and superior stock.

THE SHINDELBOWER has a splendid article of chewing Tobacco. We give it to the lovers of the althy weed.

THE Tribune Job Office is supplied with a large variety of new and fashionable type, suitable for cards, circulars, and every description of fine printing. Orders promptly attended to.

CENTRAL BANK.—At the election held on the 5th inst., for five Directors of the above Bank, Messrs. C. Rollins, John A. Burton, John R. Ford, I. P. Fisher, and C. Henderson were chosen to serve the ensuing year. The Directors subsequently re-elected Col. Rogers President, by a unanimous vote.

THEodore Tannour, the principal performer in Ballard, Bailey & Co's. French Circus, owned the property of the Company to be attached in the place of Tuesday last, in order to secure a large amount of money due for his services. We understand that Madam L. will in future manage the company herself, the most valuable property, stock &c., having been given up by the proprietors to satisfy her claim.

THE we have heretofore stated that we desired no controversy with the Somerset Democratic. The editor of that sheet seems to pay special attention to our columns, and appears to have a very great inclination in replying to our statements a sink whatever of the gentleman he may have in his nature, and act only the part of a blackguard. With such a person, we repeat, we have no desire to discuss any question.

THE attention of our Lincoln readers is invited to the advertisements of Mr. R. CARSON. His establishment in Stanford is well stocked with Drugs, Groceries, Confectionaries, and Fancy Articles. Mr. C. is so well known, that it is hardly necessary for us to say, that those who deal with him will find him a clever gentleman and an accomodating trader.

THE COMMON SCHOOL.—We are gratified to learn that the Common School Trustees for the Town District, have succeeded in effecting an engagement with Messrs. GEO. FRASER and B. H. ALEXIS, by whose good advice, for what ever sum the district may receive from the Common School fund of the State, to teach the school for a term of ten months, commencing on the first Monday in June next. This arrangement is a highly favorable one, and will give to those who attend the school all the advantages which they could enjoy in any other institution of learning. Messrs. Fraser and Allen, we are satisfied, are competent teachers, and will spare no pains to ensure the rapid progress of their scholars. The school will be taught in the large and pleasant school building so recently occupied by Rev. J. L. McKEE. All children living in the district, between the ages of 6 and 13 years are entitled to the benefits of this school, and it is desirable that as many as can do so, will be present at the commencement of the session.

GRADED SCHOOLS.—The communication in another column, on the subject of graded schools, contains suggestions of great practical importance, which should not fail to secure the attention of those who are interested in increasing the efficiency of our common school system. We hope our correspondent will favor us with his remarks.

Sam Salter, deputy Sheriff of Douglas county, is writing made out for the arrest of one hundred citizens of Lawrence, charged with the commission of crimes under the Territorial laws.

A standing army will be stationed at Lawrence until all the arrests are made, when the prisoners will be conveyed to Leavenworth.

ANNIE, eldest daughter of the late James O. Fraser, was born to death at the residence of her mother, in Fayette county, a few days since, by her clothes taking fire.

LEXINGTON AND DANVILLE RAILROAD.—We have in the Lexington Observer, the proceedings had at the annual meeting of the stock-holders, held on Tuesday last, in that city. The meeting was organized by calling CHAS. CAUDWELL, Esq., of this county, to the chair, and the appointment of JOHN T. HOGAN, Esq., of Lexington, Secretary.

Gen. Combs addressed the meeting at considerable length, giving a history of the affairs of the Company from its organization to this time. He explained his efforts to get aid from Cincinnati, and expressed his confident opinion that the balance of the $100,000 would be speedily made up, and the responsibilities that he himself had personally incurred, in consequence of this reliance, be met, and paid. Hogan hoped to have had the Cincinnati stock represented at the meeting, but was disappointed.—Cincinnati, he said, would be entitled to one Director of the Company, to be selected by the stockholders living in that city, as soon as the $100,000 promised there should be subscribed. He desired them even to have two Directors, and for this purpose Fayette would yield one of his Directors, and would yield the other in order to strengthen the Board in Jessamine county, which had so much at stake in the prosecution of the road.

He then exhibited the present financial condition of the company—its freedom from a heavy indebtedness, and ample resources to pay up all it owed, and complete the road to the Kentucky river, if promptly and properly sustained by the people of Cincinnati and Jessamine county.

His address occupied over an hour, and was listened to with great attention by the audience. At its conclusion, he was requested to have it printed for publication and distribution in pamphlet form, together with the reports of the Engineer and Treasurer.

The following gentlemen were then unanimously elected Directors for the ensuing twelve months:

JOHN J. SIMS, James H. McCampbell, and Lewis H. Christian, of Lexington; Clifton Roden, of Danville; and W. J. Mobley, of Harrodsburg.

The Directors proposed to be appointed in Cincinnati, were not named at present, and it will not be until the Stockholders at that place shall be convened.

The question of gauge was referred back to the new Board of Directors, and the meeting adjourned.

The above synopsis of the proceedings, we conclude from the Observer.

NICARAGUAN AFFAIRS—WALKER'S VICTORY.—The second battle of Rivas, of which we have heretofore published a telegraphic account, occurred on the 11th of April. The battle appears to have been a hard one, and was warmly contested.

The results of the engagement are thus summed up by the "El Nacional":

The battle of the 11th of April, 1856, will long be remembered in Costa Rica. Their army, which had been ill-fated, and deserted, and had suffered a great loss, was defeated, and captured.

Can we let me love you,

To Heaven's altar;

Most anxiously I wait;

Your answer to my prayer;

Did not at once to love you,

Or consign me to despair!

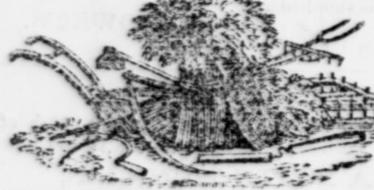

And as "my mother" know not,

Of this Leap Year's prediction,

Be sure you send your letter right to me,

I believe this all that's needing.

The Farm and Garden.

CABBAGE WORMS.—John Farmer one of the most practical farmers in the State, says, these destructive insects may be destroyed in the following easy and simple way:—Southern (Miss.) Standard.

"Break off a la la leaf from the bottom of the cabbage, and place it on the top, upper side down. Do this in the evening, and in the morning you will find nearly or quite all the worms on each cabbage having taken up their quarters on this leaf. Take off the leaf and kill them or feed them to the chickens, and place the leaf back if there be any more to catch."

To PREVENT CABBAGES FROM GROWING TO LONG SHANKS.—To secure true solid heads on those stalks that manifest a disposition to grow to what are commonly known as long shanks, take a penknife and stab it through the stalk about the middle; insert a small piece of wood to keep the incision open, which will check the growth. By doing this good heads of cabbages may be secured on every stalk.—Genesee Farmer.

THE HOUSEKEEPER'S REPERTORY—Comments.—To fasten small shells on ornamental work, use either of the following cements: 1. Dissolve shellac in enough rectified spirit to make a liquid of the consistency of tracel. 2. Finely powdered plaster of Paris made into a cream with water.

Farnish for Pictures.—White of egg, beaten up, makes a good varnish for water-colored pictures. It must be carefully laid on with a large camel's hair brush.

To Remove Ink Stains.—Many of the preparations for removing ink spots take out the color as well. The following is a perfectly harmless one: To half an ounce of oxalic acid put a fluid ounce of distilled water. When nearly dissolved, add half an ounce nitric acid. This will be a saturated solution, and will take out ink without injuring or disoloring the substance, whether it be cloth, silk, &c.
